The Company complies with this view of independence by ensuring that the independent directors elected not only meet the professional criteria of competence but also are able to freely profess their views on the policies and operations of the Company untainted or unhampered by any relationship or other considerations other than what is best for the Company, its stockholders, and the community where the Company operates.

Does the company have a term limit of five consecutive years for independent directors? If after two years, the company wishes to bring back an independent director who had served for five years, does it limit the term for no more than four additional years? Please explain.

Consistent with SEC Memorandum Circular No. 9, Series of 2011, the Company has a term limit of five (5) consecutive years for independent directors. Following a two (2) year 'cooling-off' period, a person who previously served as independent director may seek re-election for another period of five (5) consecutive years.
